Subject: 250 giant corporations

Kudos to the Sierra Student Coalition. If they didn't exist, we'd have to invent them. I'm already thinking of creative ways to use the attached list of [bidnis volk]. But for the rest of my life I will wonder WHO WAS the operative at this meeting . . . and WHO IS the little birdie?

FORWARD WIDELY! FORWARD TO FREE-TRADE/GLOBALIZATION LISTS!

On June 19, 2001 over 250 giant corporations from across the country came together in the Ronald Reagan International Trade Building in Washington DC to announce a new business coalition, USTrade, that will work to push the Free Trade Area of the Americas (FTAA), a new round of the WTO, and especially FAST TRACK in the U.S. Congress. A preliminary analysis of those present at the meeting indicates large numbers of wealthy Caucasian males wearing expensive suits.

A Sierra Student Coalition operative, disguising himself as an elite, infiltrated the meeting and emerged with important documents, including a contact list with direct phone, fax, and emails for the 30 or so members of "steering committee" of the coalition from groups like the American Chemistry Council (chemical industry, also biotech), National Association of Manufacturers, Coalition of Service Industries, and more.

[Along with the steering committee contact list is the list of the 205 Member Corporations of USTrade.]

While the Sierra Student Coalition offers this information to you only as a public service, a little birdie has told us that this list could be used to send large numbers of emails, faxes, and phone calls to these corporate free-traders. The little birdie thinks that blasting faxes, emails, and phone calls to these people 9AM to 5PM EST the WEEK OF JUNE 25, 2001 asking them about their true intentions with their trade policies might inconvenience them a whole lot.

USTrade is an enormous business coalition -- almost as big as our movement is broad. They're taking a page from our playbook in doing this. This is an unprecedented step for business groups to take, but they know they will have to face us -- the new anti-corporate globalization movement -- in these fights to get what they want. But don't underestimate this business coalition. They have a lot of money and a lot of power on Capitol Hill.

They are pushing Fast Track hard, and the Fast Track situation is heating up. The Republican leadership is pushing for a vote on Fast Track in the House of Reps. as early as July. After you fax and email these corporate free-traders, fax and call your representative in congress. Fast Track would vastly increase the odds that Bush will be able to ram a new WTO round and the FTAA through Congress -- it too must be stopped!

Tell your representative to oppose free trade and the fast track proposal put forth by Rep. Crane! Call the Capitol switchboard at 202.224.3121, ask to be connected to your representative (look it up at www.congress.org), ask to speak with the aide that deals with trade, and tell them unequivocally that they should reject fast track! Also set up a meeting or protest during the July 4 recess when your member of Congress is in their home district!

Both the Sierra Student Coalition and the little birdie agree that we cannot let those wealthy white men from USTrade win this fight! Don't let them forget that we are living in a post-Seattle, post-Quebec world -- don't let them or Congress ignore our movement! We beat Fast Track in '97 and '98. Let's do it again. Go to www.ssc.org/sage/sage.html for more info on Fast Track.

The majority of these numbers appear to be direct. USTrade is a new business coalition formed in order to facilitate corporate efforts to push Fast Track, the FTAA, and a new round of the WTO. One interesting note -- the McGraw-Hill Companies, whose CEO chaired their press conference, is an educational materials corporation that is presumably in on trade for the potential privatization of education.
